WashingtonBy Raymond Wilove

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—(INS)—

Congressional investigators sped toward a secret rendezvous today with a mystery witness who they said will "break wide open" the Communist spy case.Rep. Mundt (R) S. D., Acting Chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, declared that swift-breaking developments can be expected which will rock Washington.A heavy cloak of secrecy was thrown about a three-member subcommittee which left Washington last night a few hours after a committee investigator hurriedly dashed to the capitol with news of the discovery of another key witness.Mundt said the new testimony will provide the link in the evidence needed to substantiate the sensational charges of Miss Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers, two self-confessed "couriers" of the alleged Communist spy "underground."The Congressman declared:
"His testimony, added to that of Miss Bentley and Chambers, will prove the existence of a Communist spy ring which reached high into the government during the war."Mundt stated that the witness probably will be placed on the stand some time next week at a public hearing. Pending the subcommittee's return, no date was set for the next hearing.The congressman anticipated that the subcommittee, the names of whose members were kept secret, will reach its destination by noon and return by Monday.Members intimated that the mystery witness had been in the Communist "underground" and stated he is in a position to prove its existence. Mundt emphasized that he will not point the finger at any new individuals.It was explained that he was discovered by a committee investigator on the basis of a tip from an independent source, other than Miss Bentley or Chambers.A committee source stated that his evidence will deal largely with Communist activities in the nation's capital.Mundt stated that the witness, who is not a government employee, will "offer adequate proof" to bear out the charges made by Miss Bentley and Chambers that a Communist spy ring had contacts in high government positions, even in the White House.Mundt said he does not know whether the mystery witness will offer testimony which would substantiate the Congressman's expressed belief that a Communist spy ring still exists in the government. Other members stated that they "believe" it still operates but

May Be ProhibitedNEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Radio's growing boom in "giveaway" programs, which has seen individual listeners win more than $20,000 in merchandise for answering jackpot questions, faced sudden collapse last night. In a surprise move the Federal Communications Commission announced in Washington that it was going to study the legality of all such programs under the Federal lottery laws.The commission's action affects approximately forty national network shows, which have been awarding prizes at a rate of about $150,000 a month, and hundreds of similar programs on individual stations. Many additional shows planned for the fall season had been expected to increase the radio industry's total annual "giveaway" to more than $2,500,000.The FCC made public a list of proposed regulations by which it would judge the legality of a given program. While not telling when the regulations would become effective formally, it said it would accept statements from interested parties until Sept. 10.Under the regulations, a program would be held a lottery by the FCC if a person had to listen to the radio or watch a television set to receive a prize. A show also would suffer a similar fate if a person received any clue to an answer to a question or if he had to write a letter or engage in a telephone conversation where the substance of either letter or call were broadcast on the air.HERE AND THERE IN scribed the two Congressional investigations of alleged spy ring operations as a "red herring" that diverted the attention of the public from the failure of the Republican-controlled Congress to act on his program to curb inflation. Meanwhile, Representative Mundt predicted that "a mystery witness" who would appear before the House committee next week would "break" the whole spy case wide open.The Communist national convention rejected a plea from Earl Browder for readmission to the Communist party.The limited Republican anti-inflation bill was approved by the House, 264 to 97, and sent to the Senate.

President Truman called the measure a "feeble compromise."The Senate Banking Committee made radical changes in the bill on housing proposed by Republican Congressional leaders and raised the possibility that the extra session might end without action on the measure.The Berlin crisis eased further

LODGED AGAINST GIRL*Miss Shirley Weider, Quakertown, Under Bail For Court Hearing*$6900 IS SUM INVOLVEDQUAKERTOWN, Aug. 6.—A girl graduate of the Quakertown high school is charged with embezzling from her employers money amounting to apparently $6,900. Miss Shirley Weider, New street, is under $2500 bail for a hearing at court.
Bail was fixed following a hearing before Justice of the Peace Howard E. Shive.Miss Weider, who is about 23 years of age, had been employed about two years as a bookkeeper in the offices of Groeber & Braumle, who are engaged in the heating and insulation business, here.The young woman, who offered no defense at the hearing, had the bail furnished by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moll.A member of the firm said after the hearing that Miss Weider's speculations were discovered in June, when the firm, to its surprise, overdraw its account in one of the banks.The firm, thinking it had sufficient funds on deposit, began an investigation and found that Miss Weider had manipulated her accounts in such a manner that the shortages were not discovered until the investigation was started.This member of the firm said also he did not know in what manner Miss Weider, who was graduated from Quakertown high school, spent the money. He added that he knows very little of the private life of the girl.Two Profitable Films Are Shown Before LionsANDALUSIA, Aug. 6.—Two motion picture films were shown by David Maroni, Philadelphia, representing a paint manufacturing firm, when he visited Andalusia Lions Club last evening. The dinner session was held at Becker Farms Inn, Bensalem township.One film, titled "Weed-No-More," dealt with preparation for killing weeds; and the second with DDT preparation for killing insects.Ralph Sterner, chairman of the safety committee, reported some progress on the campaign for slowing traffic on Route 13 through this community.Presiding officer was William R.
Sterner, and the invocation was given by Edward Allison.Welcomed as a new member was Caesar Sicilia; and guests were Frank Entwistle, Andalusia; and Mr. Maroni.The salaries of city employees. They will release another 100,000,000 marks next week to pay the outstanding liabilities of the Council.
This move was believed to be part of a diplomatic deal in the making that would give the Russians control of the Berlin currency in exchange for lifting the blockade.The Berlin situation was the subject of renewed conferences among the United States, British and French representatives in Moscow.
Reports indicated that agreement in principle had been reached to hold a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers to consider the Berlin situation and other East-West differences over Germany.It was revealed that an agreement reached last week would virtually effect unification of the French zone of Germany with the United States and British combined zones. A program calling for common export-import policies and pledging maximum trade between western Germany and France was part of the agreement.The United States submitted its plan, sharply differing from that offered by Russia, to the Belgrade conference on the Danube. The American program would give this country, Britain and France a voice the United Nations Charter was adopted (July 25, 1945) by the San Francisco Conference, and ratified by the United States (Senate action, July 28, 1945) as the first of more than fifty nations to accept the program.Today, the United Nations is a failure both as an agency of world cooperation and as a promise of lasting peace.Every one of the major foreign policies of this country, from our activities in Greece to the Marshall Plan, is being taken independently of United Nations, without reference to it, and at the constant expense of its dignity and authority. Without formally having done so, the Truman administration nevertheless has abandoned United Nations for all practical purposes and is conducting its foreign affairs as though no such organization existed.As for peace, prospects for world cooperation and amity are far worse today than three years ago. We are edging into total preparation for total war. A third world conflict appears to be at least an even bet for the present generation.Three things are obvious: First, some form of world organization and cooperation is the only hope for restoring peace.Second, in its present form, United Nations is impotent to deal with the emergency.Third, since United Nations is the only foundation available upon which to build for peace, what is necessary is to re-build and re-implement U. N. to meet the world's needs.The idea that the United Nations charter is deficient and defective is neither new nor revolutionary. As a matter of fact, when the proposal was laid before the American people, it was not presented as something perfect, but simply as "the best we could do"—as a program which not only could but should be amended in the future.For example, the late President Roosevelt told Congress on March 1, 1945:"No plan is perfect. Whatever is adopted at San Francisco will doubtless have to be amended time and again over the years, just as our own Constitution has been."

U. N. S. Staff CorrespondentMOSCOW, Aug. 6.—(INS)—Western diplomats are expected to see Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov today in a possible prelude to a meeting of Big Four foreign ministers on Germany.A new session with Molotov presumably would wind up preliminary negotiations for arranging a high level parley to settle East-West differences on Berlin, all of Germany and possibly other European problems.There was growing belief that an agreement in principle had been reached on holding a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers in the near future.When the United States, British and French representatives see Molotov they may propose a time and place for such a meeting.There is some speculation that Paris will be proposed as the place for the meeting some time late this month or early in September.
Indications are that the matter will be settled by personal talks tonight on Molotov by the western diplomats.Reports of an imminent visit to Molotov circulated after the chiefs tions conferred at length again yesterday.American Ambassador Walter

GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME

On the whole the world votes in favor of summer. People lament its heat, they mop their fevered brows and they long for cooler weather. Yet the popular song about the "good old summer time" is not far wrong in depicting it as the year's most popular season. Few people write poems about the good old winter time.

Two views of summer are expressed in contrasting lines of poetry. Wrote James Thomson, famous poet:

"All conquering heat, O intermit thy wrath.
And on my throbbing temples, patent thus,
Beam not so fierce. In vain I sigh, And restless turn and look around for night.
Night is far off, and hotter hours approach."

Those who sympathize with those lines would perhaps fare better if they would remove superfluous clothes, lie themselves to the nearest swimming pool, take life a little easier, and not fret about politics, the state of business, or the dangers of a war.

The opposite view of summer is suggested by the words of Henry Longfellow, who wrote: "The air of summer was sweeter than wine." Also by Susan Coolidge, who said: "All green and fair the summer lies, just bidden from the bud of spring."

Summer descends on the populace with scorching heat, but it opens up doors that are closed in winter. It invites everyone to go out and live close to nature, climb her mountains, bathe in her waters, roam through her fields, drink in the beauty of her forests, dance to the song of her birds, and see new happiness in the bloom of her flowers. A few hours of heat are a small price to pay for all the beauty and freedom the good old summer time gives.

Evolution of man: At 20 he is concerned about his ties, at 40 he growls if his shirt collars aren't done right, at 60 he is cranky about his shoes.

Survey shows the American people still prefer beefsteak, now known as the food of memory, to any other dish.

A statesman never finds it necessary to moan: "I wouldn't have done it if I had known what the result would be."

Can We Rebuild U.N.?

President Truman, in asking Senate approval for the Charter on July 2, 1945, echoed the thought—and some of the words: "This is not a static treaty. It can be improved—and, as the years go by, it will be—just as our own Constitution has been improved."

In view of these and many other similar hints three years ago that the leaders of this nation knew there were defects in the U. N. charter, and hoped to see them remedied, it is astounding that neither President Truman nor any other top spokesman in foreign affairs has suggested strengthening the weak spots of the U. N. program as the best protection against approaching war.

What are the defects in the U. N. plan? In general, they have been fairly well identified. Many observers have criticized the arrangements and theories in detail. The "veto clause," as written, alone is enough to make it impossible for U. N. to deal with Russia at the present time. Moreover, the whole set-up is top-heavy with power concentrated in three big nations; forty to fifty participating countries have no democratic voice in U. N. decisions. Broadly speaking, the objective of the charter as now written is "security" (which translates into the protection of big nations as doing whatever they want to do) rather than "justice" and the protection of the weak.

Were these defects known before the charter was frozen into what now appears to be its final form, at the San Francisco Conference in 1945?

Unquestionably, yes. All of these weaknesses were revealed, and widely discussed in plenty of time for them to have been dealt with, had President Roosevelt and his successor, President Truman, been willing to face that task ahead of time.

But next to nothing was done to correct these defects. Instead, there was a nation-wide storm of propaganda to the effect that criticism was "obstructionism," and that we had to take the program as it stood—in Mr. Truman's words to Congress: "this Charter, or no Charter at all."

Major events prior to the calling of the San Francisco conference on April 25, 1945, should alone have been enough to put the American people on notice that the whole plan was a jerry-built scheme, ill-thought-out, conceived in politics, and founded on no lasting principles.

For instance, the U. N. Charter was intended to "imply" the Atlantic Charter. Yet President Roosevelt himself conceded in an interview (early January, 1945) that there was no real Atlantic Charter, and that it was merely a publicity stunt—at best only some notes on scraps of paper.

Again, the purpose for which the San Francisco meeting was called was that of ratifying the hasty and crude outline of the Dumbarton Oaks conference, which, as the dates alone are enough to show (August 24 to October 7, 1944) was little more than another publicity stunt—part of the Roosevelt build-up for his Fourth Term election.

While the American public cannot be expected to keep sufficiently close to the details of public affairs to recognize points such as these as danger signals, indicating that the U. N. program was, at best, only a "half-baked" and largely political scheme of self-advancement by the New Dealers, nevertheless trained observers did not fail to sense the situation.

The outstanding spokesman for those who wanted world peace done right, it was to be attempted at all, at that period was Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan Republican.

On January 10, 1945, Senator Vandenberg made an address before the U. S. Senate which marked a milestone in American history—not because it changed the course of events, for this it did not do; but because it was the last occasion on which an outstanding, competent and articulate American spokesman has attempted to talk frankly and sincerely to the American people about the fundamentals of world organization and peace.

Senator Vandenberg riddled and ridiculed the Dumbarton Oaks proposals. He charged that they forgot and ignored the one main essential of peace, which is justice. Replying to a foreign policy message from President Roosevelt four days earlier, which had been a weasel worded piece of special pleading, the Michigan returned again and again to the point that the American people were not being told the facts about world affairs, and that "candor" (a word he used over and again) was necessary on the part of the American government.

With great eloquence, he excoriated President Roosevelt for his then recent confession that the Atlantic Charter was a sham. The reply of President Roosevelt to this indictment of his peace program was wholly typical of the New Deal approach to such matters—but unhappily, it was entirely effective in silencing Senator Vandenberg's criticisms thereafter:

HE NAMED SENATOR VANDENBERG A DELEGATE TO THE UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE AT SAN FRANCISCO!

One of the mysteries of contemporary history is the remarkable about-face on national and international affairs which Senator Vandenberg thereupon performed. Not only did he presently reverse all of his previously professed beliefs on such matters as tariffs, foreign loans, etc., etc.; but of his ringing criticisms of the defects in the peace program, thereafter virtually nothing more was heard.

True, in accepting the appointment, he did reserve the right to fight for inclusion of the principle of justice into the Charter; and true, shortly thereafter (April 1, 1945) he did release a sort of "Bill of Particulars" of what was wrong with the Dumbarton Oaks Plan.

But as for DOING anything about the basic defects in the U. N. program, or as for continuing to be the frank and realistic critic of these defects, Senator Vandenberg rapidly drifted into being just one more apologist for the scheme—blemishes and all.

Is it still possible to correct these blemishes? Certainly not unless we try. Perhaps not even if we do. But trying to correct them, before it is too late, certainly should be worth the effort.

The time is overdue for the calling of a new world conference to bolster up the framework of the United Nations, so that all countries—including the United States—may turn again to it with revived confidence in its dedication to a just and lasting peace.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

NCE a beef dinner is a "must" in the average American home. Usually, the A & P Service Home-Makers recommends pot roast for Sunday. The pot roast is economical because it comes from less expensive cuts and because, properly trimmed, there is no waste in gristle or bone. The roast may be selected from chuck, round or rump of beef. Beef is easily recognized by fresh, red color, with firm, velvety lean and streaks of fat distributed through the lean. Allow half pound per person in buying, more if you want leftover meat for other meals.

A four-pound roast, which will serve eight, will require from three to four hours to cook, depending on the tenderness of the meat. Braise the meat with a quarter cup of flour and brown on all sides three tablespoons of hot fat. Season with salt and pepper, add a half cup of water, cover and cook slowly until the meat is tender. Add more water as it cooks away. For those who like it, rub a butter of garlic lightly over the meat before dredging with flour. Other variations include using tomato juice or tomatoes instead of water. If desired, such vegetables as pared potatoes, green beans, carrots, onions and celery may be added to the meat while cooking, but put them in just long enough ahead that everything gets done together.

If vegetables are not cooked with the meat, the menu may be completed with green beans and sweet corn. Sliced cucumbers with a sour cream dressing make a tasty salad with this meal. Scallions may be added to the salad if desired. For dessert, serve blue cheese with crackers, adding grape jelly if peaches are desired.

Reject Soviet-Proposed Danubian Treaty

Belgrade — Britain joined the United States today in rejecting a Soviet-proposed treaty which would grant Russia monopolistic control of Danube River shipping. Britain's delegation chief, Sir Charles Poole, supported an American draft convention presented yesterday to the Danubian conference which would permit the United Nations to oversee the work of a future Danube commission.

Western diplomatic sources also disclosed today that Yugoslavia reportedly has rejected a Soviet request for submarine bases at seven points along the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia. According to information reaching Western diplomatic circles in Belgrade, the Soviet request was made some time ago. Its rejection by the Yugoslavs is believed to be one of the contributing factors to the rift between Premier Tito and the Kremlin.

Peron's Gov't Is Unopposed After Mass Resignations

Buenos Aires — The Argentine government of President Juan D. Peron was left without opposition in the Chamber of Deputies today after the mass resignation of all 42 radical party members. The radical deputies quit in protest against the impeachment of one of their leaders.

Herbert Brownell, Jr., Dewey's campaign manager, and others.

When the GOP campaign strikes its full stride it will have on the firing line all of the erstwhile Presidential aspirants.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) O. is scheduled to make several speeches in the midwest, while Harold E. Stassen is expected to deliver at least a dozen addresses.

Sen. Arthur Vandenberg (R) Mich., is expected to make as many talks as his foreign affairs responsibilities will permit.

While Dewey and Warren are expected to carry much of the burden, Stassen will bring into action the organization which supported him at the national convention.

Among the matters to be decided at the Albany conference is when Dewey will start his speaking campaign. If he follows the precedent set in 1944, he will open his drive with a three-week tour to the West Coast. His first speech four years ago was delivered in Philadelphia.

Dewey has disclosed that he intends to lash back at President Truman on the issues of high prices and meat shortages.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY PARADE

By Max Factor, Jr.

(Famous make-up advisor to the screen stars now writing for INS)

HOLLYWOOD. (INS) — Following a line of reasoning which completely baffles me, many women obviously are taking the "new look" scheme of things as an indication that they should return to the favoring of the very thin, highly arched eyebrow. This fashion was popular several years ago, with Marlene Dietrich its most outstanding exponent.

Such brows definitely do not belong with "new look" costume and hairstyle patternings. As a matter of fact, the overly thin and acutely arched brows never truly belonged to any appearance scheme as far as most women were concerned.

Only on an extremely distinctive appearance types such as Miss Dietrich did such brows actually serve a beneficial glamorous purpose.

It was all for the best, for all concerned, when these pencil-line brows were replaced by those of fuller growth and more natural appearance.

Now, during "new look" days fuller brows are essential to the dramatic consistencies of appearance. As most of my readers undoubtedly know, the so-called "new look" isn't basically a new one at all. It is a present-day adaption of a feminine glamour scheme which was widely popular several decades ago.

In those days, the hair-doing and costuming involved demanded a noticeable degree of boldness and appearance in the eyebrows. It still does. So, if you value the expressional qualities of your face, avoid the nearly invisible eyebrow plan.

Now at the risk of perhaps confusing this matter of the "new look" as it pertains to eyebrows, I shall make one suggestion. Be sure

Landlords Fail to Give Complete Data

Joseph T. Turchi, Area Rent Director of the Philadelphia Area Rent Office, announced today that his office is receiving many petitions for hardship adjustments under the new short form (D-58A) which are defective in that they fail to furnish the required information on the form itself or, more often, fail to accompany the filled-in form with the necessary supporting data. As a result, it is necessary to return such forms to landlords who submit them, thus delaying action on their petitions.

The new short form is available for landlords who own not more than four rental dwelling units. In order to qualify for a rent increase under it he must show that his expenses for the current year have increased over a prior base period because of higher tax, fuel, utility, or insurance costs and these increases have not been offset by higher rent.

Mr. Turchi pointed out that in filing a short form petition the landlord must prove the expense figures listed by him on the form by attaching either receipted bills or signed statements from tax collectors, fuel dealers, utility companies, or insurance agents. He urged landlords seeking rent adjustment under the short form provision to read the general instructions on the reverse side of the form before attempting to complete the form.

"If they do this," he said, "the cause of most of the defective forms now being received will be removed."

"We are most anxious," he added, "to act on these petitions as speedily as possible. We can only do this, however, if the petitioners will co-operate with us by following the instructions on the back of the form."

RECIPES

PARTY FRIED CHICKEN

Two 2-pound boxes of quick-frozen cut-up chicken for frying. Two cups of flour, two tablespoons salt, two eggs, one cup milk, three pounds of fat for frying.

Thaw chicken according to directions on the box. Wash and drain. Use drumsticks, thighs, breast pieces and wings for the party. The remaining pieces will make excellent chicken for a family picnic or luncheon.

Method: Dip pieces of chicken into flour and salt sifted together, then into egg beaten with milk, then again into flour. Melt fat slowly in a heavy kettle. Heat to 350 degrees F. Cube of bread brown in 60 seconds. Lower pieces of chicken into kettle. The temperature of the fat will drop to 300 degrees F. As the frying continues the temperature of the fat should rise, but not over 350 degrees F. Fry for seven or eight minutes, depending on size of chicken, until crisp and browned. Place on a rack in a flat pan. Put 1/2-inch hot water in the bottom of the pan and place in a slow oven (300-325 degrees F.) for 10 minutes or until tender.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Andrew G. Solla, D. D., Pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour

"Blessed Assurance, Jesus is mine—"

Our Father in Heaven, our hearts overflow with joy because of the certain knowledge that Jesus Christ is our personal Saviour. Help us, therefore, to love and to trust Him more fully this day and always. Grant that we shall never be ashamed to confess Him before men and our loyalty to Him may always come before the realities of this world, so that at last we may receive the crown of eternal life. In His name we ask for it. Amen.

SUMMER DESSERTS SHOULD BE A TYPE EASY TO DIGEST

Flora-May Sagui, Home Economics Representative. Summer desserts should be easy to make and easy to digest. Chilled fresh fruits, garnished with mint or topped with sherbet, are refreshing and help furnish needed vitamins and minerals. Ice creams, sherbets, and ices are popular in hot weather and may be made into a variety of tempting sundaes or tall, cold drinks.

Homemakers should serve watermelon, cantaloupe and honeydew melons often during the short season they are plentiful. This fruit makes interesting color and flavor combinations when cut in balls or diced and served in fruit cup or fruit salads. Half a watermelon split lengthwise, with the pulp removed makes attractive bowl for serving a combination of chilled fruits, including some of the cut watermelon.

For an occasional cooked dessert that would be good to serve with a light meal, try a quick chocolate soufflé, which is made in a double boiler.

LOCAL BALL TALENT
TO SHOW STUFF
AT A'S SCHOOL HERE

Baseball talented youngsters from Bristol and vicinity will have an opportunity to show their wares to baseball scouts on September 2, 3 and 4, when Connie Mack's traveling baseball school comes to the Third Ward field. Sessions will be held in the mornings and evenings. Arrangements have been made by the A's scouts, Ira F. Thomas, Charles Gault, Bernard Guest and John W. Coombs to seek talent from lower Bucks county for the Philadelphia Athletics. Thomas and Coombs formed a famous battery for the A's some 35 years ago. At the present time, Coombs is baseball coach at Duke University, while Thomas is head of the A's scouting system. Gault is a former New York Yankee player.

The only requirement made of the boys of this section is that they be of 16-years-of-age or over, and they furnish the equipment that is necessary to play the position he is accustomed to playing. Balls will be furnished by the scouts.

The main purpose of the school is to find boys who have enough ability to take up baseball as a professional career. These boys will be signed to an A's contract and be trained out.

However, the scouts will also instruct the youths in pitching, batting and fielding. Teams will be chosen and games played. Whenever a youngster makes a mistake in his position, the scouts will stop the game and show the youngster the correct way that the play should be made. Batters will be shown how to get better distance in their hits by changing stances, etc.

Two local baseball fans, "Billy" Elmer, retired railroad worker, and "Lou" Simons, deputy collector of internal revenue, made the arrangements with Thomas to conduct the school here.

This week "Bill" McGerr and Marty Broom, local youngsters, have been working out with the A's scouts at Flemington, N. J. entertainment for the next gathering.

There was one birth and one death during the year.

State Police from Langhorne and Doylestown barracks have caught up with at least 37 motorists who failed to have their vehicles inspected by the final date, July 31. The fines are listed at $10 and $25. No extension was granted at the end of the inspection period on this occasion, therefore there are more drivers caught in the net.

Most common excuse offered, it is stated, is: "I was at the garage Saturday and couldn't get waited on." There was a rush at most inspection points on Saturday—the final day.

GIRDLE CARGO

NEW YORK (INS)—A shipment of 3,117 girdles expected to provide a good foundation for inter-American relations, recently was flown to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Some of Chicago's finest girdles, which stretched just one way would reach nine-tenths of a mile, went out on Pan-America's Clipper Charter, guaranteed to do their bit to keep things in shape below the equator. The girdles weighed a total of 1,647 pounds believed to be a record for air shipments of this type.

BRIEFS

By JOE ELKERSON

Meeting . . . next Tuesday, August 10th, the members of Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association will meet at 8 p. m. in the American Legion Post Home, Radcliffe street. All members are urged to be on hand and interested sportsmen have a cordial invitation to attend.

Resignation . . . after 35 years in conservation work, Seth Gordon, executive director of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, at his own request will retire from state service on October 16th.

Gordon will be succeeded by Thomas D. Frye, state official from Westmoreland County, who has been employed in various departments of the Commonwealth for almost 30 years.

In his letter of resignation Gordon cited the fact that last January he had served the Pennsylvania Game Commission for 25 years, and that by the terminal leave date he would be its administrative head "for almost twenty years, a rather long period to bear the burdens of such a difficult position."

His conservation career began on August 1, 1913, when he became one of the late Dr. Joseph Kabbus, with whom he understudied for six years.

He left the Game Commission in 1926 to become conservation director of the Isaac Walton League with offices in Chicago. Five years later he went to Washington to take over the presidency of the American Game Association, and in 1935 he helped to merge that organization's activities with the newly-organized American Wildlife Institute (now Wildlife Management Institute) and became its first secretary. He returned to the Game Commission in 1936, and is today one of the best known figures in the North American conservation movement.

Notes . . . delegates from 11 clubs were present when the August meeting of the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs was held in Doylestown on Monday evening.

They learned that bids for repairs to the Canal between Point Pleasant and New Hope are in process at the moment, with work expected to be underway before cold weather.

The Federation's first batch of 474 pheasants will be ready for distribution to co-operating clubs on August 19th. Lower end clubs must call for their birds at Earl Carpenter's home, Doylestown, by 2 p. m. on that date. AND ONLY THOSE CLUBS WHO HAVE CONTRIBUTED THEIR SHARE OF FUNDS TO THE PROJECT WILL SHARE IN THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE PHEASANTS. At least four clubs in this area have not paid up, and unless this is done by August 15th, they will not share in the distribution. A total of 10 member clubs have not yet paid.

The second lot of birds (480) are reported doing very well at the Federation's pens, located at the Eastern State Penitentiary at Graterford. The following clubs were represented at the meeting: Tri-Sport Branch Valley, Great Swamp, Bristol, Bucks County, Edgely, Hilltown, Morrisville, Paledown, Yardley and Conestoga.

Curtailment . . . John M. Phillips, 57-year-old former president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, recently issued a warning to sportsmen that they face a curtailment of services furnished by the Commission unless the hunting license fee is raised.

Phillips noted that the annual hunting license was raised to $2 in 1927 and hasn't been changed since. He urged the increase so that more land may be purchased or wildlife. The Game Commission now owns more than three-quarters of a million acres of land.

Same season . . . although a week earlier this year the duck season in Pennsylvania will again be 30 days. The season will run from October 15 to November 13th, with a daily bag limit of 4.

Will Try to Play
Playoff Games Tonight

Efforts will be made to begin the playoffs of the quarter-finals of the Bristol Youth League this evening, starting at 6 o'clock. Hibernians will meet Bell's Aces on Leedom's field, while the Newportville Indians meet the Bristol Terrace nine on the Terrace diamond. This is the same schedule that was supposed to have been played last evening, but called because of rain. The two games of the Bristol Suburban League were also called because of rain. The suburban loop will finish its regular season next week. The two games scheduled for Sunday have been postponed because of the All-Star game to be played.

TYSEN TO DRIVE IN
LANGHORNE OVAL

Men change status and position in the pits that line the death lanes of the racing tracks as well as out on the turns and straightaways where the actual dueling goes on.

At Langhorne, on August 15th there will be the second race of the stock car season, a 200-mile, and one guy will drive who used to own the cars and just watch, while another who used to drive will now just look on.

Ed Tyson, of Langhorne, the village where the track is located will be the driver. He used to own cars and made money for two years but he got the fidgets watching others tool his jobs around the one mile dirt oval.

So he sold his cars and hired out to ride for Lee McBride, Lee McBride, of Trenton, was quite a racer himself in his day. But always he envied the owners, and finally he gave up the helmet and goggles and bought himself a couple of the fastest stock cars in the business, and now lets others take the turns on two wheels and crack the fences into kindling wood ever and anon.

"It's safer, and you make more money," he said. Said Tyson, who can watch and not want to get into it. "The guy who can must have ice in his blood." That's how it goes, the old order ever changeth.

The car Tyson will wheel around in the long 200-mile grind is the sister ship to the one the madman Pepper Cunningham, will handle. They are alike as two peas in a pod—fast and sensitive to touch and geared for the highest courage a driver can summon.

It is Tyson's first year as a driver instead of an owner but racing as a team mate to Pepper Cunningham he is learning fast. "Just don't learn too fast," warned Pepper the other day. "Maybe the boys tell you that we're all going the one direction, and it's safe, but I'm telling you sometimes they get going both directions, even on a race track."

Hold Rendezvous With Mystery Spy Case Witness

based their conclusions on "logical deductions."

Several declared the committee has no proof that such a ring carries on its operations now in the government.

Meanwhile, Mundt lashed back at President Truman for stating that the committee is dragging a "red herring" across the trail for Congress' failure to enact his anti-inflation program.

The Congressman asserted that the President is in a "poor position to talk" because he issued an executive order forbidding government officials from furnishing information on loyalty examinations to Congressional committees.

Mundt commented that "a freeze order which goes that far is an attempt to prevent Congressional committees from getting the facts."

Meanwhile, the committee and the Justice Department threw a drag-net out for J. V. Peters, named by Miss Bentley as the head of the entire Communist "underground" during the war, and Victor Perlo, described by her as the head of one of the spy rings. The committee wishes to subpoena both men to testify.

Discovery of the new mystery witness elated members. They had admitted previously that they were confused as a result of the testimony given by Alger Hiss, former State Department official named by Chambers as an underground member.

Hiss denied he was a Communist or had belonged to any ring. Mundt termed his statement to the committee "forthright" and said it was apparent that one of the witnesses "was lying." He said both men will be recalled for questioning after the committee checked with their testimony.

Committee members indicated that the hearings will not get into the charge made by Rep. McDowell (R) Pa. that two shipments of "uranium oxide" and some "heavy water"—atom bomb materials—were sent to the Soviet Union in 1943.

McDowell told reporters that the Soviet government "the Communist underground, and leftwingers" exerted "tremendous pressure" on the United States Government to send them the materials for atomic bomb experimentation.

The Pennsylvanian stated that 1300 pounds of "uranium oxide" were shipped to Russia. He declared that "uranium oxide" is an advanced product of uranium ore.
